Instructor Biography:

Dave Weaver is the Founder of The New England Catching Camp in Hudson NH. Coach Weaver is one of the most highly respected catching instructors in the country and has worked with catchers, both male and female, from all over the United States. He has been a presenter at the World Baseball and Softball Coaches Convention at the Mohegan Sun in Connecticut.

He founded The New England Catching Camp in 1999 when he recognized that instruction for the toughest position on the diamond was generally unavailable to players committed to play the catcher position. The New England Catching Camp is one of the few year round programs in the United States devoted exclusively to training catchers.

His summer camps draw catchers from all over the country and his training DVD, The Coach's Guide to Training Catchers is one of most highly regarded training tools for coaches looking to learn how to teach the skills need to succeed at catching.

Jay Weaver is the Senior Instructor of The New England Catching Camp in Hudson NH. Jay has been teaching catchers for over 10 years and has worked with catchers from youth age through professional baseball. He was a presenter at the 2008 World Baseball Coaches Convention at the Mohegan Sun in Connecticut.

A 2001 All-State Catcher from Alvirne High School in Hudson NH, Jay was a D-2 starting college catcher as a freshman. In 2005 he was signed to play for the Nashua Pride of the Atlantic Independent League by former Boston Red Sox Manager Butch Hobson.
